

NEWDOOR Entrance Exam Preparation Program

- Career program with financial support for entrance exams for higher education institutions -

gloab has established a project to provide a one-year career program that helps immigrant youths to improve their ability to collect information and money literacy so that they can form themselves autonomously, and to provide a financial support necessary for entrance exams for higher education institutions.

This program will be open to five 2nd-year high school students with financial difficulties to take entrance exams for higher education institutions, who hold residence statuses such as dependent and official (as of April 2022).

The reality is that there are many obstacles to be overcome for students with such residence statuses with limited opportunities for scholarships for higher education institutions for example. gloab supports high school students with immigrant backgrounds, who take initiatives to overcome various challenges they face and pave their way for their lives more proactively.

This is a project that supports high school students who aim to go on to higher education institutions and take entrance exams so that they can stand on their own feet in the future.

[Qualifications]

- A student who has difficulties to receive scholarships and financial support, etc. due to his or her residence statuses such as dependent and official.
